

One Red Rose

Words and music by John Gary

If in the deep and silent earth
Where time withdrawn from me I lie
And after life a little worth give from my grave
Although I die

Perhaps a note or two in song
May linger in the ear awhile
Or from the pen where thoughts belong to paper
May create a smile

If as a man I gave one word
Where words are just a token
And in the saying it was heard
I'm grateful that the word was spoken.

If in immortal slumber
I can in my final changeless pose
Grow from the soul toward the sky
In grateful tribute and with hope
That in the restless winds that blow,
A gust of my small effort
Find a seed to carry and earth to grow.....One Red Rose.
